Becoming a Minister of Prayer through the Center for Sacred Studies (CSS) online ministerial training program prepares one to assist others as they move through the many transitions of life. Directed study creates the opportunity to explore specific methodologies, practices, theories, traditions, beliefs, scriptures, and philosophies, as well as allowing for the integration of individual spiritual experiences. In addition to developing the skills and knowledge to act as a support to others, this process is designed to enlighten an individual's practice of worship and daily living—for the purpose of living life as a “walking prayer”.

Individuals who successfully complete the course of training may be ordained as a Minister of Prayer, and will be qualified to conduct ceremonies, facilitate study groups, and mentor others in the process of spiritual growth unique to each individual.

Program Details

The two-year on-line program, which begins once per year on May 1, consists of 22 modules: 11 months' instruction each year, plus an annual 5-day retreat at a retreat center in the Bay Area of Northern California. The current cost of tuition and fees is $5500, or $2750 per year. An Auditing Option (which does not lead to ordination) is available for $100 per month, or $1100 per year. At this time we cannot offer financial aid, but flexible payment plans are available.

Participation in the program requires access to a computer and to a reasonably fast connection to the Internet. You should also be familiar with basic computer skills, including Internet use, email, and word processing.

Registration is accepted at any time during the year, but instruction begins for new students only once per year, on May 1. Full-time students are expected to follow the program structure month by month and graduate two years after they begin.

For more information or an application form, email the Registrar at registrarMTP@yahoo.com.

Our Philosophy

To be a Minister of Prayer is to walk in the world in dialogue with Creation. This approach to life is based on the teachings of the “Original Peoples” — who related to the world by “listening” to the world around them as a form of guidance from Spirit. From this perspective, everything is considered as an expression of Spirit. This is a way of being that values being led by the heart, rather than the head.

The teachings and ways of the First Nation Peoples have been passed down from generation to generation, and link us with the forces of the Earth, the fundamental laws of Nature, and the original wisdom teachings — which are based on respect for all Life. The prevailing worldview of contemporary society is to look at the world through a materialistic lens — one that is competitive and wants to acquire things — a worldview that is based on fear rather than love.

The Ministry of Prayer curriculum has been consciously designed to transform this lens of perception into one that returns the individual, and thereby the collective, to the “original matrix” — one that dialogues with Creation as a way of life. This is a process that facilitates the path of discovering one’s own gifts of healing, what the Original Peoples call one’s “medicine”. This is a perspective that views every being as a unique herb in the garden of Creation. It’s a perspective that encourages one to cultivate that herb — to follow the Spirit of their true Self — and, ultimately, to actualize one’s Self.

Ministry Program

Ministers of Prayer are qualified to offer spiritually based guidance, counsel and support to individuals, groups, families, and communities regarding issues as diverse as birth, death, marriage, spiritual crisis, and the spiritual dimensions of healing. Ministers can also empower others, through awareness and clarity, to create and experience a state of peaceful well-being in their everyday lives.

Program of Study

The Ministry of Prayer program comprises a global learning circle, offering two years of instruction. Students in the virtual school complete one module per month, for 22 months.

A module consists of

- On-line video and audio instruction from the Instructor for that month’s module;
- On-line video and audio from an honored Elder such as a member of the International Council of Thirteen Indigenous Grandmothers;
- Assigned reading and applied practice exercises;
- A 500-1000-word student reflection paper;
- A telephone consultation with your assigned Mentor;
- and 1-2 telephone conference calls: an Instructor call, and a “Dialogue with Jyoti”, CSS Spiritual Director.

In addition, students are asked to participate twice a year in a Maitri Breathwork workshop, and to gather for an end-of-year retreat at Black Mountain Retreat Center located in the coastal ranges of Northern Sonoma County, California.

Auditing: Students who elect the Auditing Option have access to the audio and video content and participate in the conference calls. However, they do not have a mentor or reflection papers, and they do not participate in the breathwork workshops or in the annual retreats. The Auditing Option does not lead to ordination.
